FITTING

Scholl® shoes are also classified according to their fit so as to better meet their comfort criteria.

They express the circumference (or rather volume) of the foot at its widest point which generally increases in relation/proportion to the length. It detects if a foot is "slimmer" or "wider".

Scholl has decided to use two types for the following reasons:

- F F fit is normally used for comfortable shoes, ideal for normal feet with no particular problems.
- G G fit is wider and more comfortable: ideal for tired and swollen feet or those affected by minor disorders (e.g. circulation disorders, bunions, malformations caused by inappropriate shoes etc.)
